

“Let Your Horses Run Free”

Verse 1

Standing in the rain,
I am watching as the night becomes
A tear from your eye.
A feeling comes over me,
And I slip away in memories of your smile.

Verse 2

The blue world has left you cold and lonely and
Now you're bleeding with pictures of time
Captured by yesterday's moonbeams.
The wind becomes wild, chasing horses in the night.

Pre-Chorus

My eyes reflect the displeasure of your spirit
In courtship with the pale moonlight.

Chorus

Stampeding rains fall from turquoise eyes.
Satellites of your image orbit before the night.
Endless sea; Sapphire dreams.
Let your wild horses run free.

Verse 3

The crimson tides wash upon the moon of jade;
The stables within your heart now hang
Upon the lips of winter's shade.
Strands of golden memories
Are falling from Orion's belt.
The winds blush you a whisper
As snow covered mountains begin to melt.

Verse 4

Your carriage of dreams races against the wind.
Stop chasing the night and free your heart once again,
And I'll be there for you, my friend.

Chorus

Stampeding rains fall from turquoise skies.
Satellites of your image
Reflect on the walls of night.
Endless seas of sapphire dreams;
Let your wild horses run free.

Outro

Let your horses run free.
Let the rains wash away your fears,
And set your horses free.
Let 'em go free.
